The water famine in New York is at an end. Pity the reign of fraud hatched in the same city is not at an end.

The prospects for the Republicans carrying the presidential election next year, are of a very cheering character. The reports from all over the country, as made at the meeting of the National Committee, at Washington, on Monday, was of a character to enthrone the most despondent Republican.

It is not safe to sell oleomargarine except under its true name. The other day a man, who violated the law in that respect, was sentenced by the United States District Judge to pay a fine of $100 and undergo an imprisonment of nine months in the Eastern Penitentiary. The sentence is a severe one, but it is by such dealings with those who knowingly infract well-known statutes that eventually ill-disposed man will be taught to respect them.

EYES BLOWN OUT.

The Foolish Act of a Polish Miner.

Joseph Secufski, a Polish miner residing on "the rocks" in town, and employed in Seaman & Graeber's colliery, at Gilberton, met with a distressing accident while at work yesterday, through his own foolish act. He had drilled a hole and picked up a three-inch piece of drill to prepare it for use. To make an opening for the cap he stood the drill on an end and struck the upper end with the point of his pick. An explosion followed and Secufski's eyes suffered from the force. Dr. James Stein attended the man and found the sight of both eyes destroyed. Secufski is now at the Miners' Hospital.

Verdict for the Borough.

The case of Mary J. Lloyd against this borough for damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by a fall on a pavement in front of the property of T. C. Waters, on West Lloyd street, was tried in Pottsville yesterday and decided in favor of the borough. The claim of the plaintiff was entirely disproved by the borough and it was shown that she broke her arm in the yard of her own residence, instead of on the pavement.

GLEANINGS BY THE LOCAL CORPS OF REPORTERS.

WHAT THE SCRIBES SEE AND HEAR

A Point That Interests Applicants for Saloon Licenses—An Amending Act That Does not Seem to Amend.

Considerable excitement exists among people of town who have applied for saloon licenses for next year and have prepared their applications under the amending Act passed by the Legislature last June.

The excitement has been caused by a question raised by T. R. Boddall, Esq., who has discovered that that part of the business transacted by the Legislature is in a muddled condition.

The point made by Mr. Boddall is that the amending Act of June 19, 1891, is null and void, as it fails to amend anything.

An Act of May 13, 1887, provides that the surety on the bond of an applicant for a retail license shall be "no less than two reputable freeholders of the ward or township where the liquor is to be sold."

The supposed amending Act of June 19, 1891, provides that the surety shall be "no less than two reputable freeholders of the county where the liquor is to be sold." But the preamble of this Act recites that it is an amendment "to the 5th and 8th sections of the Act of May 24, 1887."

The Act relating to licenses passed on May 24, 1887, relates to wholesale dealers and has but three sections, therefore the supposed amending Act cannot relate to it.

The Act relating to retail licenses, passed in 1887, was enacted on May 13th.

A large number of people in town have applied under the June law, as they found it very convenient. Some living in one ward have secured residents of another ward as their sureties, while others have presented their applications with the names of residents of other towns as their bondsmen.

If Mr. Boddall's point is held to be a good one many applicants will be put to considerable trouble to prepare new applications. One said to a HERALD reporter yesterday: "If that law of last June is no good it will put me in a hole. I could have secured two bondsmen in my own ward, but I concluded to get a more intimate friend in another ward to go on the bond. Now, I am afraid the fellow I could have had is on too many other bonds to accommodate me."

The Small Boy

Who, when asked his age, replied that, judged by the fun he had had, he was 100 years old, pretty accurately described the feeling of the large audience at the Academy last night. Lillian Kennedy made a decided hit, and the amusement that was crowded into three hours to unravel "She Couldn't Marry Three" was enough for two nights; and all the roles essayed by Miss Kennedy and the strong support, was equally charming and successful. The company is far above the average, and is sure of big business.—New York Herald, July 13.

"A CITIZEN" TALKS.

Says a Borough Water Plant Would Pay.

EDITOR HERALD:—I see by the water company's correspondent in the Sunday News of the 29th inst., that the company intends to adopt the same methods they used ten years ago for the purpose of misleading the people. The public meeting spoken of was attended by 1,000 of the best people of the town and Mr. M. H. Kehler, who was unanimously selected as president of the meeting, appointed the gentlemen who are now acting for the citizens with the committee appointed by our councilmen. I cannot see how Mr. Kehler can be charged with selfish ends. He has done nothing beyond appointing that committee and the appointment was made at the request of the thousand citizens present at that public meeting. The committee then proceeded to carry out the instructions of the meeting—not those of Mr. Kehler, and I can see no reason why a charge of selfishness should be made against him. That committee, I understand, is still at work and will continue to push it to a successful termination unless the water company (and I, as a citizen, hope they will not succeed) can induce the people, by misrepresentations, to put a stop to the movement.

The people of Shenandoah know, as well as I do, that the water company is fighting for a principle. But they are also aware that the only principle the company ever showed was for the almighty dollar. They played a game of chance and lost, and now they are crying to get their money back. Is it not true that their action in bringing suit has cost this borough many hundreds of dollars? Is it not true that they are now willing to give the borough free water and forego the amount the verdict gave them? Is it not true that they went back on their pledges of ten years ago? Is it not true that they denied, on the witness stand, ever making such pledges? And is it not true that they admitted on the stand that they considered anything fair in a fight of this kind? And all for a principle! There is no principle in grinding the last penny out of the people of this town. There is no principle in taking back all they have for the sake of saving their dividends. There is no principle in taking back solemn pledges and swearing they never made them. There is no principle in stooping to misrepresentations to win this fight. I, for one, believe that a water plant can be put into this town for $75,000 and that the bonds could be floated at four per cent. On the question of revenue I believe the borough would be all right. The water company's revenue amounts to at least $30,000 per year. Say, with that revenue, the cost of running the borough works would be $10,000 a year (and that is a high estimate) there would be an annual balance of $20,000 towards liquidation of the indebtedness. Compare these figures with those of the water company's correspondent and see how far the company will go for a principle. Why, four or five years would wipe out the water bonds and the revenue from that source would be greater than our present tax duplicate and the borough tax would eventually amount to comparatively nothing. The revenue would satisfy most people, but it seems this company cannot sleep in bed of a possibility of collecting about $600 more principle.

HIS BACK BROKEN

JAMES MOONEY MEETS WITH A FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

THROWN BY A RUNAWAY HORSE

The Unfortunate Man May Linger for Months—Heartless Conduct of Men to Whom He Appealed for Assistance.

James Mooney is lying upon a bed at his home in the First ward with his back broken.

Mooney, besides keeping a small candy and fruit store on East Centre street, near the bridge, sought a livelihood by driving about the patches and collecting old powder kegs. Shortly after six o'clock last evening Mooney, accompanied by his seven-year-old son, was returning home after a day's journey. As his horse descended the steep hill at the Indian Ridge breaker a piece of the harness broke. The horse took fright and ran away. Mooney and the boy were thrown into a deep ditch at the side of the road. The boy was knocked senseless, but the father fared much worse. He fell head downward, in a doubled-up position, with his feet in the air and the weight of his body resting upon his head and neck. Mooney remained in an unconscious condition for some time and when he recovered he was unable to move from the position described.

No one was near the unfortunates when the accident happened and Mooney says it seemed a month before two men, on their way to work at Lanigan's, came along. Hearing the footsteps on the hard, frozen roadway, the unfortunate man exclaimed, "For God's sake, get me out of this position."

"Is this where you are?" asked one of the men.

"For God's sake, take me out of this. Take me home before I die," was Mooney's second appeal, but the two men continued on their way without offering the sufferer the slightest assistance.

Being again left alone Mooney tried to shift from his distressing position, but he was unable to move a limb. Meanwhile his little boy had wandered about in a bewildered manner and could not understand the instructions of his father to go to the nearest house and secure help.

A Polisher then approached. He, too, was on his way to work at Lanigan's.

"For God's sake, help me!" cried Mooney.

The Pole laid down his can and bottle and lifted Mooney out of the ditch and then summoned assistance.

Mooney and his son were taken to their home and Dr. James Stein and J. S. Callen were summoned. The boy's injuries consisted of large lumps on the forehead and back of the head. The doctors said his injuries were not serious. The result of the father's injuries was far more grave. The doctors informed the wife that her husband's back was broken that the fracture was at the eighth or ninth dorsal.

A HERALD reporter was present when Dr. Stein was attending the unfortunate man this morning. Mooney is kept in ignorance of the nature of his injuries. He is completely paralyzed from waist to toes. The doctors pushed pins up to the heads in the limbs and in the body below the waist, but there was not the slightest sense of feeling.

Mooney was resting easy. "Doctor," he said while the physician was attending him, "I can't see how those two men could be so heartless as to leave me in that position in the ditch. If they had been Poles or Hungarians I would not look at it so much. But they would not. I know one of them and I hope that he will never be called upon to appeal, as I was. The poor Pole who did all he could, God bless him."

"Ned" Brennan and James Shields, who were in the room, said that perhaps the two men thought Mooney was under the influence of drink, but they assured the reporter that Mooney had not been drinking for fourteen months and that he was a member of the Association T. A. B. Society.

Dr. Stein says that the victim may live a month and may linger for six, but death will surely follow the injury.

Mooney is about 38 years of age and has six children, the oldest child being but 13 years of age.

A Pleasant Party.

We came near overlooking one of the pleasantest parties held this fall. It was the occasion of Harry Selber's 37th anniversary of his birth. He was agreeably surprised by receiving a large number of visitors at his residence on South Jardin street. Among them was the battle-scarred, grey-headed "Davy" Morgan and his wife; W. C. Richards and wife; Councilman Holman and wife; Big "Joe" Frost (big-hearted, too) and wife; Mrs. I. H. Carl, Mrs. Joel Marshall, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Faust, of Llewellyn, and many others, who made a most pleasant and interesting party. Social games of all kinds were indulged in, old war stories were ventilated by Messrs. Morgan, Richards and Holman, and, to cap the climax, a bounteous spread, consisting of all the luxuries of the season, was set out by Mrs. Selber.

Christmas Leslie's.

The Christmas number of Frank Leslie's Weekly is simply superb. It is even better than last year's, and that is saying a great deal. Its cover reminds one strongly of English publications, but its pages are filled with the best of American art and letter-press. Its double page represents the crusade of the children in the thirteenth century, when over 200,000 of these little people lost their lives in attempting to recover the holy sepulchre at Jerusalem. Among other delightful pages are "A Slippery Day in Boston," and the exquisite reproductions of the work of some of America's best amateur photographers. For sale by all newsdealers. Price, 25 cents.

Commendable.

All claims not consistent with the high character of Syrup of Figs are purposely avoided by the Cal. Fig Syrup Company. It acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the system effectually, but it is not a cure-all and makes no pretensions that every bottle will not substantiate.

Married.

James Purnell, of Gilberton, and Miss Lizzie Howells, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howells, of Turkey Run, were married at the residence of the bride's parents last evening by Rev. H. G. James, of the English Baptist church. The happy pair were the recipients of many valuable presents for housekeeping purposes.
